2024/05/10 18:40 Musashi 3S

2024年度

開講年度/Academic year

製造機 Period	### 日本の子でのはいます。	1713413 1 1227 1 1 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2				H 3 743
超速程序Period	世界の	授業コード/Course code	S0220	授業名/Course	title	Politics in Asia/Japanese Poli	tics [EAS]
担当教育/matroctor タェイク・ノージィ Subjects numbering code は トラード/ Keywords	図書教員/instructor  ロード/Keywords  Divided Instructor  ロード/Keywords  Divided Instructor  ロード/Keywords  Divided Instruction, political leadership.  Divided Instruction, political leadership, and proport of the parameter of the provided and variety of the parameter of the provided and variety of the parameter of the	授業区分/Course classification	講義	単位数/Credits		2単位
型音数 / Instructor	製造製作 / Instructor ターク・アイド / Keywords    オークード / Keywords   Japanese politics, Japan. political parties, political instory, politymaking, politicians, comparative politics, civil vociety, Constitution, political leadership,   Divided into four (4) major themes, this class provides an overview of contemporary Japanese politics. Although designs to provide an overview, the course is also designed to stimulate students' critical thinking on issues of both historical and Learning goals for this course are to: - develop a base knowledge of the Japanese political system and the relationship between state and society: - analyse controversial issues facing contemporary, Japanese politics; - analyse controversial issues facing contremporary, Japanese politics; - analyse controversial issues facing contremporary, Japanese politics; - analyse controversial issues facing controversial issues facing controversial part of the provision of Japanese politics, including but not limited to: - the historical controversial of the provision of the p	曜日時限/Period	水曜3限	教室/Classroom	n	1403教室
Japanese politics   Japan, political parties, political history, policymaking, politicians, comparative politics, chil society, Constitution, political leadership, Course, in Constitution, political parties political course are to:	Apanese politics, Japan, political parties, political Parties, political instory, policymaking, politicalns, comparative politics, civil society, Constitution, political leadership,  Divided into four (4) map of meme, this class provides an overview of contemporary Japanese politics.  Learning goals for this course are to 1:  - develop a bose knowledge of this Japanese politics or this parties, contemporary Japanese politics; - ortically evaluate scholarship and respond to citical and theoretical problems facing Japanese politics; - ortically evaluate scholarship and respond to citical and theoretical problems facing Japanese politics; - apply ideas learned from the Japanese case to an international and globalised context.  To achieve the aforementioned goals, course content, learning activities and assignments are designed to that students case: - synthesize and apply outside perspectives with their own thinking: - overtical evaluations through comparison and critical thinking: - overtical control collective and reason-based arguments; - overtical collective and reason-based argu	担当教員/Instructor	ジェイク・ノージィ			AST32150
Constitution, political leadership. Divided into four (4) major themes, this class provides an overview of contemporary Japanese politics. Although designed to provide an overview, the course is also designed to stimulate students' critical thinking on issues of both historical and current Japanese politics. Learning goals for this course are to: - develop a base knowledge of the Japanese politics senders controversial issues facing contemporary Japanese politics; - analyse controversial issues facing diagrams and critical and theoretical problems facing Japanese politics, critical params and params and params and assignments are designed so that students can.  - analyse controversial interests to critical questions in objective, formal academic writing; - develop activate development in analyse controversial context.  - develop activate development in analyse controversial problems facing Japanese politics, including but not limited to: - the historical context of the modern political system.  - the historical context of the modern political system the historical context of the modern params and overview of Japanese politics, including but not limited to: - the historical context of the modern params (i.e., the Diet, the party system, the bureaucriscy, elections), - the actors that participate in the political result o	Divided into four (4) major themes, this class provides an overview of contemporary Japanese politics. Although designed to provide an overview, the course is also designed to stimulate students critical thinking on issues of both historical an current Japanese politics.  I develop a base knowledge of the Japanese politics and the relationship between state and society;  analyse controversial issues facing contemporary Japanese politics;  critically evaluate aschibidge of the Japanese politics;  critically evaluates aschibidge of the Japanese politics and political particular to the Japanese politics;  critically evaluate aschibidge of the Japanese politics;  critically evaluate aschibidge of the Japanese politics and politically evaluate aschibidge of the Japanese Politics and the Japanese Politics and politically evaluate aschib	キーワード/Keywords to provide an overview, the course is also designed to stimulate students' critical thinking on issues of both historical an current Japanese politics.  Learning goals for this course are to:  - develop a base knowledge of the Japanese political system and the relationship between state and society; - analyse controversial issues fating contemporary Japanese politics; - critically evaluate scholarship and respond to critical and theoretical problems facing Japanese politics; - apply ideas learned from the Japanese case to an international and globalised context.  To achieve the aforementioned goals, course content, learning activities and assignments are designed so that students can; - synthesize and apply outside perspectives with their own thinking; - develop critical evaluations through comparison and critical thinking; - develop critical evaluations through comparison and critical thinking; - develop cell-reflective skills to which they can apply to any context; - construct objective and reason-based arguments; - engage in debate with peers, and learn to be open-minded about others' views; - convey meaningful responses to critical questions in objective, formal academic writing; - develop self-reflective skills to which they can apply to any context; - continue a life-long learning process and promote curiosity.  PRESENTAZORISE / DEPORTAZORISE /	by provide an overview, the course is also designed to stimulate students' critical thinking on issues of both historical an current Japanese politic Japanese politics Japanese politics; - develop a base knowledge of the Japanese political system and the relationship between state and society; - analyse controversial issues facing contemporary Japanese politics; - critically evaluate subchipsing and respond to critical and theoretical problems facing Japanese politics; - critically evaluates subchipsing and respond to critical and twentical problems facing Japanese politics; - apply ideas learned from the Japanese case to an international and globalised context.  To a chieve the aforementioned goals, course content, learning activities and assignments are designed so that students can can can be continued and poly outside perspectives with their own thinking; - develop critical evaluations through comparison and critical thinking; - construct objective and reason-based arguments; - engage in debate with peers, and learn to be pome-minded about others' views; - convey meaningful responses to critical questions in objective, formal academic writing; - develop eaff-reflective wells to which they can apply to any context; - continue a life-long learning process and promote currosity.  PRES-CILA OIDES Pring pour own PC or other device  This course provides students with a fundamental overview of Japanese politics, including but not limited to: - the historical context of the modern political system the historical context of the modern political system the historical context of the modern political system who holds power in political suses that Japan faces (e.g. administration, economy, security and defence, corruption etc).  This course will ask critical questions of the topics covered, such as: - who holds power in political system and that changes have occurred in the Japanese polity and society since the opposition parties fared?  - who holds power in policymaking in Japan, and how is power disseminate	授業の概要/Course outline		itical history, polic	cymaking, poli	ticians, comparative politics, ci	vil society,
中でデバイスの持参/Bring your own PC or other device  This course provides students with a fundamental overview of Japanese politics, including but not limited to: - the historical context of the modern political system, - institutions that shape the political environment (e.g. the Diet, the party system, the bureaucracy, elections), - the actors that participate in the political realm (e.g. politicians, parties, citizens) - and the political issues that Japan faces (e.g. administration, economy, security and defence, corruption etc).  This course will ask critical questions of the topics covered, such as: - what historical legacies exist, and what changes have occurred in the Japanese polity and society since the postwar era? - who holds power in policymaking in Japan, and how is power disseminated through political, or non-political, institutions? - how can we explain the Liberal Democratic Party's dominance for most of the postwar, and how have the opposition parties fared? - what characterises the Japanese party system? - how are citizens' interests represented, or how do they participate in politics?  Experimental Representation of the Japanese State and State Institutions (II): The Destwar settlement  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): The Postwar settlement  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions of the Japanese State  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions of the Japanese State  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions of the postwar political system  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions of the postwar political system  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions of the postwar political system  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions of the Japanese State of the Japanese	Abilities to be acquired in this class  PC等デバイスの持参/Bring your own PC or other device  This course provides students with a fundamental overview of Japanese politics, including but not limited to: - the historical context of the modern political system, - institutions that shape the political environment (e.g. the Diet, the party system, the bureaucracy, elections), - the actors that participate in the political realm (e.g. politicians, parties, citizens) - and the political issues that Japan faces (e.g. administration, economy, security and defence, corruption etc).  This course will ask critical questions of the topics covered, such as: - what historical legacies exist, and what changes have occurred in the Japanese political, or non-political, institutions? - who can we explain the Liberal Democratic Party's dominance for most of the postwar, and how have the opposition parties fared? - what characterises the Japanese party system? - how are citizens' interests represented, or how do they participate in politics?    Extremely (Faraturateris) /*Preparation & *Extremely (Textrook, Chapter 2: The making of a modern state modern state modern state modern state state and State Institutions (III): The Postwar Settlement   Textbook, Chapter 3 - The postwar political papanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions assets of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions assets of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions assets of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions assets of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions assets of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions assets of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions assets of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions assets of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions assets of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions assets of the Japanese State and State Insti	到達目標/Learning objectives	Learning goals for this course are to: - develop a base knowledge of the Japanese political system and the relationship between state and society; - analyse controversial issues facing contemporary Japanese politics; - critically evaluate scholarship and respond to critical and theoretical problems facing Japanese politics; - apply ideas learned from the Japanese case to an international and globalised context.  To achieve the aforementioned goals, course content, learning activities and assignments are designed so that students can: - synthesize and apply outside perspectives with their own thinking; - develop critical evaluations through comparison and critical thinking; - construct objective and reason-based arguments; - engage in debate with peers, and learn to be open-minded about others' views; - convey meaningful responses to critical questions in objective, formal academic writing;
This course provides students with a fundamental overview of Japanese politics, including but not limited to: - the historical context of the modern political system, - institutions that shape the political environment (e.g. the Diet, the party system, the bureaucracy, elections), - the actors that participate in the political realm (e.g. politicians, parties, citizens) - and the political issues that Japan faces (e.g. administration, economy, security and defence, corruption etc).  This course will ask critical questions of the topics covered, such as: - what historical legacies exist, and what changes have occurred in the Japanese polity and society since the postwar era? - who holds power in policymaking in Japan, and how is power disseminated through political, or non-political, institutions? - how can we explain the Liberal Democratic Party's dominance for most of the postwar, and how have the opposition parties fared? - what characterises the Japanese party system? - how are citizens' interests represented, or how do they participate in politics?  Egxyp*fe*(Paration Agreed) / Preparation Agroed (characterises) / Preparation Agreed (c	This course provides students with a fundamental overview of Japanese politics, including but not limited to: - the historical context of the modern political system, - institutions that shape the political emotionnemt (e.g. the Diet, the party system, the bureaucracy, elections), - the actors that participate in the political realm (e.g. politicians, parties, citizens) - and the political issues that Japan faces (e.g. administration, economy, security and defence, corruption etc).  This course will ask critical questions of the topics covered, such as: - what historical legacies exist, and what changes have occurred in the Japanese polity and society since the postwar era? - who holds power in policymaking in Japan, and how is power disseminated through political, or non-political, institutions? - how can we explain the Liberal Democratic Party's dominance for most of the postwar, and how have the opposition parties fared? - what characterises the Japanese party system? - how are citizens' interests represented, or how do they participate in politics?  ##IDEClass outline session  In Expanese State and State Institutions (II): The Development of the Modern Japanese State modern state  ##IDEClass outline session  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions  ##IDEClass outline session  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions  ##IDEClass outline session  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions  ##IDEClass outline session  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions  ##IDEClass outline session  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions  ##IDEClass outline session  The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions  ##IDEClass outline session  The Japanese Political System (I): The Party System  Textbook, Chapter 5 - Political Parties  ##IDEClass outline session  The Japanese Political System (I): The Party System  Textbook, Chapter 5 - Political Parties  ##IDECLASS outline Session  The Japanese Political	授業を通して身につく能力/ Abilities to be acquired in this class	○専門的知識 ○主体的な学習態度 ○批判的な学習態度 ○共感力 ○対話力
- the historical context of the modern political system, - institutions that shape the political environment (e.g. the Diet, the party system, the bureaucracy, elections), - the actors that participate in the political relam (e.g. politicians, parties, citizens) - and the political issues that Japan faces (e.g. administration, economy, security and defence, corruption etc).  This course will ask critical questions of the topics covered, such as: - what historical legacies exist, and what changes have occurred in the Japanese polity and society since the postwar era? - who holds power in policymaking in Japan, and how is power disseminated through political, or non-political, institutions? - how can we explain the Liberal Democratic Party's dominance for most of the postwar, and how have the opposition parties fared? - what characterises the Japanese party system? - how are citizens' interests represented, or how do they participate in politics?    ### ### ### ### ### ### ### ### ###	- the historical context of the modern political system, - institutions that shape the political environment (e.g. the Diet, the party system, the bureaucracy, elections), - the actors that participate in the political realm (e.g. politicians, parties, citizens) - and the political issues that Japan faces (e.g. administration, economy, security and defence, corruption etc).  This course will ask critical questions of the topics covered, such as: - what historical legacies exist, and what changes have occurred in the Japanese polity and society since the postwar era? - who holds power in policymaking in Japan, and how is power disseminated through political, or non-political, institutions? - how can we explain the Liberal Democratic Party's dominance for most of the postwar, and how have the opposition parties fared? - what characterises the Japanese party system? - how are citizens' interests represented, or how do they participate in politics?	PC等デバイスの持参/Bring your own PC or other device
- 授業計画/Class outline - 関邦国人Class outline session - Class 1: Introduction to Japanese Politics - Materials provided in class - 30 - 第2回/Class outline session - The Japanese State and State Institutions (I): The - Development of the Modern Japanese State - Ratbook, Chapter 2: The making of a modern state - Ratbook, Chapter 3 - The postwar settlement - 180 - 第3回/Class outline session - The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions of the Japanese State and State Institutions (IIII): Institutions system - 180 - Ratbook, Chapter 4 - The postwar political system - 180	- 授業計画/Class outline	履修上の注意事項/Course guidelines	<ul> <li>the historical context of the modern political system,</li> <li>institutions that shape the political environment (e.g. the Diet, the party system, the bureaucracy, elections),</li> <li>the actors that participate in the political realm (e.g. politicians, parties, citizens)</li> <li>and the political issues that Japan faces (e.g. administration, economy, security and defence, corruption etc).</li> <li>This course will ask critical questions of the topics covered, such as:</li> <li>what historical legacies exist, and what changes have occurred in the Japanese polity and society since the postwar era?</li> <li>who holds power in policymaking in Japan, and how is power disseminated through political, or non-political, institutions?</li> <li>how can we explain the Liberal Democratic Party's dominance for most of the postwar, and how have the opposition parties fared?</li> <li>what characterises the Japanese party system?</li> </ul>
Class 1: Introduction to Japanese Politics Materials provided in class 30 第2回/Class outline session Development of the Modern Japanese State and State Institutions (I): The Development of the Modern Japanese State Modern Stat	Class 1: Introduction to Japanese Politics Materials provided in class 30 第2回/Class outline session The Japanese State and State Institutions (I): The Development of the Modern Japanese State modern state 180 第3回/Class outline session The Japanese State and State Institutions (II): The Postwar Settlement 180 第4回/Class outline session The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions System 180 第5回/Class outline session The Japanese Political System (I): The Party System Textbook, Chapter 5 - Political Parties 180	-	授業計画/Class outline	拄	受業外学修(予	•	(分)/ Approx. time
Development of the Modern Japanese State modern state modern state 第3回/Class outline session The Japanese State and State Institutions (II): The Postwar Settlement Textbook, Chapter 3 - The postwar settlement 180 第4回/Class outline session The Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions of the Japanese State	Development of the Modern Japanese State modern state modern state modern state modern state 第3回/Class outline session Settlement The Japanese State and State Institutions (II): The Postwar settlement 180 第4回/Class outline session of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions of the Japanese State and State Institutions (III): Institutions system 180 第5回/Class outline session The Japanese Political System (I): The Party System Textbook, Chapter 5 - Political Parties 180	第1回/Class outline session 1	Class 1: Introduction to Japanese Politics	N	Materials prov	ided in class	30
Settlement settlement settlement settlement settlement fixed settlement settlement settlement settlement fixed settlement settlement fixed settlement settlement settlement fixed settlement fixed settlement fixed settlement settlement fixed set	Settlement	第2回/Class outline session 2					180
of the Japanese State system	of the Japanese State system 180 第5回/Class outline session The Japanese Political System (I): The Party System Textbook, Chapter 5 - Political Parties 180	第3回/Class outline session 3				pter 3 - The postwar	180
第5回/Class outline session The Japanese Political System (I): The Party System Textbook, Chapter 5 - Political Parties 180		第4回/Class outline session 4					180
	tps://3s.musashi.ac.jp/uprx/up/pk/pky001/Pky00101.xhtml	第5回/Class outline session	The Japanese Political System (I): The Party	System T	extbook, Cha	pter 5 - Political Parties	180

開講開始学期/Start date

春学期

2024/05/10 18:40	Musashi 3S
5
第6回/Class outline session 6	The Japanese Political System (II): Elections			Textbook, Chapter 6 - Elections and electioneering	180
第7回/Class outline session 7	Japanese Political Economy (I): The Era of High Speed Growth			Textbook, Chapter 7 - The Economic Miracle	180
第8回/Class outline session 8	Political Economy (II): The bubble burst and Japan's lost decades			Textbook Chapter 8 - Economic slowdown	180
第9回/Class outline session 9	Policymaking in Japan			Textbook chapter 9 - Policymaking	180
第10回/Class outline session 10	Special Class - Final Assignment Discussion (One on One Consultation)			Session times will be decided in class	180
第11回/Class outline session 11	Civil Society in Japan			Textbook, chapter 1- State-society relations	180
第12回/Class outline session 12	What about Japanese leadership?			Textbook, Chapter 11 - Prime ministerial leadership	180
第13回/Class outline session 13	Japan in International Politics			Textbook, chapter 12 - National security and foreign policy	180
オンラインで実施する授業の 回数/Number of sessions to be conducted online	3回
評価方法/Evaluation method
種別/Category	割合/% (1~100) 評価基準等/Evaluation criteria
授業時間内に実施するテスト /In-class/mid-term tests	40	%	Weekly in-class multiple choice tests based on the class reading
レポート/Report	30	%	Research Paper (due end of semester, date TBA)
授業への取り組み/ Effort/Participation	Annotated Bibliography - based on chosen readings for research paper (due mid- semester, date TBA)
その他1/Other 1	Research Paper Plan - to include research question and outline (due early semester, date TBA)
評価方法に関する備考/ Remarks for Evaluation method
課題等(試験やレポート等) に対するフィードバック/ Feedback method	Answers for in-class tests will be given in-class or distributed through Musashi 3S. Written and verbal feedback will be provided for writing assignments and essays.
教科書/Textbooks	Japanese Gover	Japanese Government and Politics, Alisa Gaunder, Routledge, 2023 ed.
参考書/Reference books
URL
補足情報/Supplementary information	この科目は、副事	専攻のコア科目ま	たは関連科目です。
備考/Remarks									