授業の概要／Course outline	This course covers the cultural history of Japan and its East Asian neighbours from the mid-1850s to the mid-1960s. The course was designed for students without any background in Japanese history. We will begin with an examination of the construction the nation-state of the Japan in the context of an imperialized East Asia. Through a selection of translations, secondary sources, and field trips, we will discuss how people were enrolled in the making of Japan and how their participation in the construction of this empire differed depending on their gender, class, and ethnicity. Students will be evaluated based on participation, short writing assignments, a mid-term, and final examination. English is the language of instruction and evaluation.
到達目標／Learning objectives	Understand key moments in history of modern Japanese history in an international context through a close critical reading and classroom discussion; strengthen your reading and analysis of complex texts; acquire a perspective on the history of international relations embedded, entangled with the politics of its Northeast Asian neighbours.

評価方法／Evaluation method
種別／Category	割合／％ (1～100)		評価基準等／Evaluation criteria
授業時間内に実施するテスト ／In-class/mid-term tests	20	％	<ul style="list-style-type: none">- The midterm exam will be held in the eighth week of the class. It will consist of short identifications.- The examination is meant to measure what learned in class. Therefore, I am measuring you competency in what we have covered in class, not on how much you have been able to draw from Wikipedia articles.
レポート／Report	30	％	Weekly Reaction Papers (30%): <ul style="list-style-type: none">- You must turn in 5 out a possible 10 1-page reaction “papers”.Your papers should engage directly with the readings and course themes of the week. Your reactions need not be profound. They can be a series of questions about the readings. But they should help you prime your mind for in-class discussion and help motivate you to keep up with the readings that you will be examined.- Please turn in your typed paper in Word format by email by the night before our second class of our unit. I will give you a letter mark for each reaction, so make sure you proofread your work.
授業への取り組み／ Effort/Participation	10	％	<ul style="list-style-type: none">- Active participation is expected and evaluated. Before you come to class be ready to discuss what you have read. Bring up what you get and what you don't get. You can demonstrate you have done your homework by beginning points of discussion, summarizing the main points of discussion, bringing up parts of the readings that are unclear, and asking your fellow participants questions. (I take note of -- and give first-class grades to -- students that ask their fellow students questions because it is rare.)- Your participation is evaluated qualitatively. I realize that some people are more comfortable than others with speaking in class, and I will take note of active listening as well as speaking. I hope that those comfortable with talking in class will work on their listening skills, while those more comfortable listening will be prepared to talk as well.
その他 1／Other 1	40	％	Final Exam: <ul style="list-style-type: none">- The in-class exam will be written in the final week of class. Students must be present for the final exam.
評価方法に関する備考／ Remarks for Evaluation method	Your weekly attendance is expected – and required by the university. Attending class means that you will be on time, awake, and attentive. Students who are asleep, passing around notes, or chatting with their classmates will be asked to leave the class.
課題等（試験やレポート等） に対するフィードバック／ Feedback method	Students will receive narrative feedback on all of their work. S - Your writing will take my breath away. It will be a thoughtful, articulate conversation with what we have read and discussed in class. The writing will be a well-organized piece of prose that does not show any prejudice or ethnocentrism. It will have few passive constructions, typos, or noun contractions. The writing might not be perfect, but I will wonder if I could have written anything better when I was an undergraduate student. (I probably could not have

	written something so polished, organized.) A - The writing in this range may have decent ideas but will probably be roughened by basic flaws or the absence of concrete information like proper nouns, dates, and numbers. It will rely on adjectives and adjectives that attempt to cover the gristle of the writing. If you want to push the description, use more proper nouns; otherwise, you risk writing an interpretation that is pedestrian. If the video essay or the writing in your exams spends time simply recounting content. But it is not going to get you an A grade. You need to push the analysis further. It may receive a B grade or lower. (B grades are fine, by the way.) B - Writing of a B grade will not be of the required length and present superficial arguments. It might fail to engage the readings. It might forgo chronology. It will be poorly written with numerous spelling and grammatical mistakes. That generally shows a lack of effort. (It might look like you wrote your essay 15 minutes before class.) If the problems mentioned here are severe enough, I will fail the essay. (As I am a pretty soft touch, the writing has to be really bad for me to fail it.)
